SCULPTURE GARDEN

Summer's here! Grab your sunscreen, sunglasses, sandals and explore the Peter Kiewit Foundation Sculpture Garden. Use the limericks and the picture clues to find seven sensational sculptures.

Bonus: Where in the Sculpture Garden does this squiggly line appear?

To solve this don't get a complex just be mindful of your steps. Find the oldest tree. Head north 15 steps to a 'T', 17 more steps east stands a man who reflects.

While in the garden on a stroll, find a lone soul. He stands head in hands not making any demands. A battle has taken its toll.

Find the dancer on bended knee, staying in the center of the garden is key. Movement one may observe is found in every curve. How beautiful is she?

A couple separated by space exemplifies dignity and grace. Find them looking west, captured in a moment of rest. A stoic expression adorns each face.

Look to Joslyn's neighbor of knowledge; this step before college. It's a great background for this artwork with lines all around. This you simply must acknowledge.

Find a man cloaked in fur created after Bodmer. Looking for a medal of peace chances of finding the work will increase. Art of the west this artist does prefer.

A family of four traversing across the prairie floor. What's there to gripe when ma's got her pipe? Kids shouldn't be fighting when there's much to explore!

You may touch the artworks in the Sculpture Garden however keep in mind the artists did not design them to be used as a jungle gym.
